EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Please find attached in the e-mail your document with comments from the reviewer. Also please check the reviewer comments below.

REVIEWER #1 COMMENTS

The article is interesting; however it needs extensive English language editing. Please check the comments in the attached manuscript file, and address some noted language errors.

How could the authors define the cutoff value of HOMA- IR in Indonesian race? Usually validation requires large number of participants. Have you conducted previous large scale studies?

Dear RJIM

Thanks a lot for your kind support. By this e-mail, we have revised our manuscript according to reviewer comments (attached in this e-mail). We have corrected and edited the mistakes in English language as suggested by the reviewer. For the questions asked by the reviewer, we try to answer it. Since there is still no exact way to define HOMA-IR cut off in defining insulin resistance, we use one approach: "HOMA-IR above 75 percentile" to define insulin resistance, which is also used by Cheng, et al (Ref 9) in defining insulin resistance in Taiwanese population. We found slightly higher cut off (2.74) compared to Cheng, et al result (2.3). We have not conducted previous large study in non-menopausal female adults, but in the future, we would like to try to conduct a larger study in finding the exact HOMA-IR cut off.

Please your reply after receiving our revised manuscript. Thank you so much for your kind help and support. We hope our revision met the Editorial Team and reviewer hope, and our manuscript could be published in RJIM.
