Reviewer A:

Suggestion: I think you can use this tittle, "A Closer Look on Linguistic Politeness among Bugis Youth: Tabék in Situational and the Philosophical Context " to represent the whole story of your paper and to dynamically fits with the journal aims and scope.

Comments: I have checked the whole revision, it seems the author had make some progressive changes to raise the quality. Now its more readable and flawless, Therefore, I would be more than happy to accept the revision. After minor revision in the reference section by adding the doi active link to the reference from recent publication in journal... . Good job!

Recommendation: Accept Submission

Reviewer B:

Seeing all the hard work reflected from the manuscript, I would like to say A "big Yes" from me. The revision made by the author is acceptable. eventhough, the editing and language quality still needs to be improved. Therefore I suggest sending the article to the professional proofreader or collegues with excellent academic writing in English, and make sure there is no more typos before publication.

Congratulations!!!

Recommendation: Accept Submission

Reviewer A:

The paper is (mostly) poorly redacted in bad English, which results in very simple or unclear and incorrect sentences. It tries to engage with existing scholarship on politeness but does so only selectively and very chaotically. A reader not familiarized with the concepts of 'face' or 'FTA' will have real problems understanding most of the theoretical sections. Still, the pragmatic theory is simply wrong with confusing English terminology (possibly used through some non-English literature). The Author quotes too many Bugis expressions without translation which makes the paper useless for an international reader. The methodology has serious flaws: too small a group of respondents (20!), too big the age difference between them (11-21), 20 or 20 years old is not a teenager anymore, etc. The speech scenarios are rather odd, while still being very similar (e.g. there is no comparison data for friendly conversations with peers). The research problem is based on a common-knowledge stereotype and the results are trivial. I mark some other problematic parts in the file, along with many editorial and linguistic errors.

Considering all this, I am afraid I cannot recommend this paper for publication.

Recommendation: Decline Submission

Reviewer B:
Recommendation: Revisions Required

Reviewer E:

This is a good topic to discuss by the academia, however, the author(s) seems need more rounds to make the manuscript well written and readable. Kindly check my overall comments in the attachment file.
