SJR

The SJR is a size-independent prestige indicator that ranks journals by their 'average prestige per article'. It is based on the idea that 'all citations are not created equal'. SJR is a measure of scientific influence of journals that accounts for both the number of citations received by a journal and the importance or prestige of the journals where such citations come from. It measures the scientific influence of the average article in a journal, it expresses how central to the global scientific discussion an average article of the journal is.

Year	SJR
2021	0.217
2022	0.167

Total Documents

Evolution of the number of published documents. All types of documents are considered, including citable and non citable documents.

Year	Documents
2020	22
2021	31
2022	74

Citations per document

This indicator counts the number of citations received by documents from a journal and divides them by the total number of documents published in that journal. The chart shows the evolution of the average number of times documents published in a journal in the past two, three and four years have been cited in the current year. The two years line is equivalent to journal impact factor TM (Thomson Reuters) metric.

Cites per document	Year	Value
Cites / Doc. (4 years)	2020	0.000
Cites / Doc. (4 years)	2021	1.091
Cites / Doc. (4 years)	2022	0.811

Cites / Doc. (4 years)	2021	1.091
Cites / Doc. (4 years)	2022	0.811

Total Cites Self-Cites

Evolution of the total number of citations and journal's self-citations received by a journal's published documents during the three previous years.

Journal Self-citation is defined as the number of citation from a journal citing article to articles published by the same journal.

Cites	Year	Value
Self Cites	2020	0
Self Cites	2021	15
Self Cites	2022	20

Self Cites	2020	0
Self Cites	2021	24
Self Cites	2022	43

External Cites per Doc Cites per Doc

Evolution of the number of total citation per document and external citation per document (i.e. journal self-citations removed) received by a journal's published documents during the three previous years. External citations are calculated by subtracting the number of self-citations from the total number of citations received by the journal's documents.

External Cites per document	2020	0
External Cites per document	2021	0.409
External Cites per document	2022	0.434
External Cites per document	2020	0.000
External Cites per document	2021	1.091
External Cites per document	2022	0.811

% International Collaboration

International Collaboration accounts for the articles that have been produced by researchers from several countries. The chart shows the ratio of a journal's documents signed by researchers from more than one country; that is including more than one country address.

Year	International Collaboration
2020	13.64
2021	12.90
2022	10.81

Citable documents Non-citable documents

Not every article in a journal is considered primary research and therefore "citable", this chart shows the ratio of a journal's articles including substantial research (research articles, conference papers and reviews) in three year windows vs. those documents other than research articles, reviews and conference papers.

Documents	Year	Value
Non-citable documents	2020	0
Non-citable documents	2021	0

Ratio of a journal's items, grouped in three years windows, that have been cited at least once vs. those not cited during the following year.

REVISI ARTIKEL

Feedback Table for 1st Reviewers

Comment	Revision	Page - Paragraph
Introduction
Too short for a full sentence, need to be related or combined to another sentence “Recently, the prices have been increasing”	Recently, the prices of these production facilities have increased, making farmers incur higher production costs. Therefore, one way for farmers to reduce production costs is to provide seeds independently (local variety seeds) without buying superior seeds.	page 3 - 9
Results and Discussion
Mention the comparison of the percentage of consumer demand between local and superior varieties	The main consideration is the high consumer demand for rice sourced from local rice varieties (30%) compared to superior rice varieties (3.33%).	4 - 4
To make this comparison clearer and even more easy to follow for the reader, a graph or two (e.g. bar graph or pie chart with some stats) could have been inserted either in this section or the result section	The graph has been created (Figure 1 and 2)	Page 7 and 10

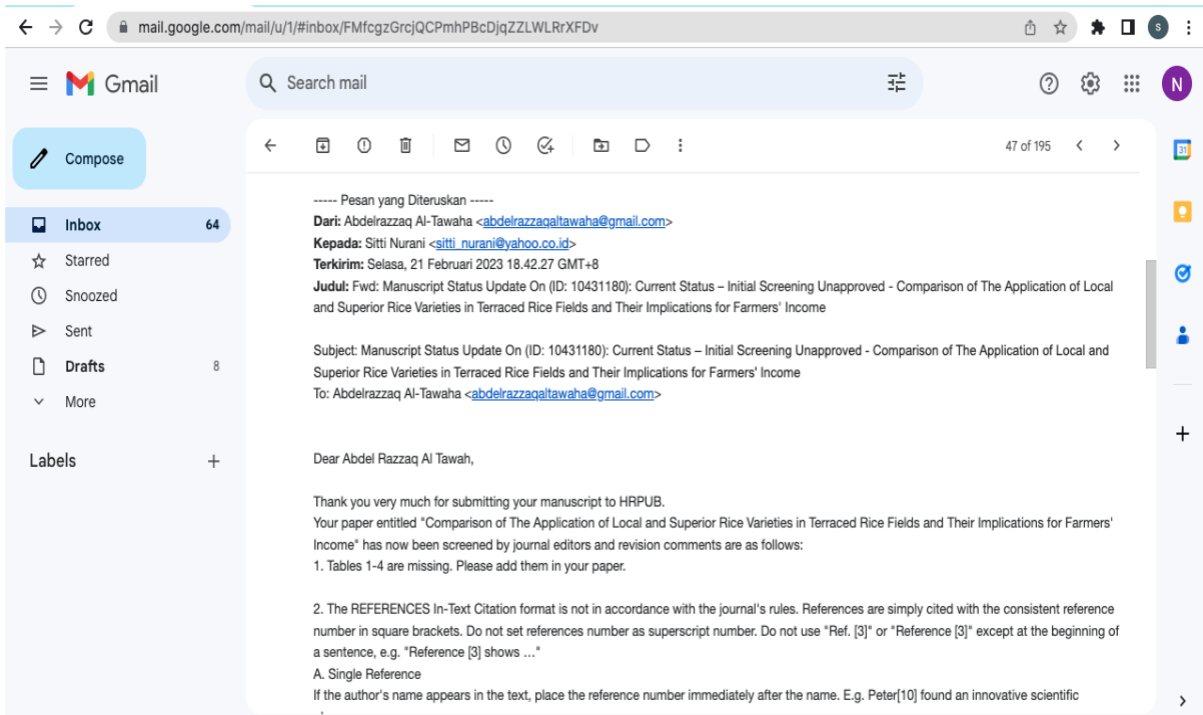

Feedback Table for 2nd Reviewers

Abstract
The content of the Abstract will definitely need to be rewritten based on the results of the full analysis of the data and the statistical comparison between the two groups of farmers as well as other findings from data analysis.	The results of the independent sample t-test analysis showed a significant difference between the income of farmers using local and superior varieties of rice ($0.000 < 0.005$), with an R/C ratio value of local varieties of 3.46 and superior varieties of 2.71.	1 - 1
Introduction
Introduction section has to be more focused on the background of why this study was done, why in North Toraja, and what are the urgency for comparing the use of local versus superior varieties of rice.	We have revised the introduction to focus more on the urgency of the research.	Page 1-3
Please use the consecutive ref number and list the ref in the References.	We have changed the citation format and added to the references	All paragraph
Results and Discussions
Please explain here from how many regencies this was selected.	The research site was purposively selected because North Toraja District is one of five rice-producing areas with a terraced system in South Sulawesi Province.	3 - 4
Please explain where this information in these two sentences was from (initial surveys or references)?	That information was from initial surveys and also supported by regency government data	3 - 4

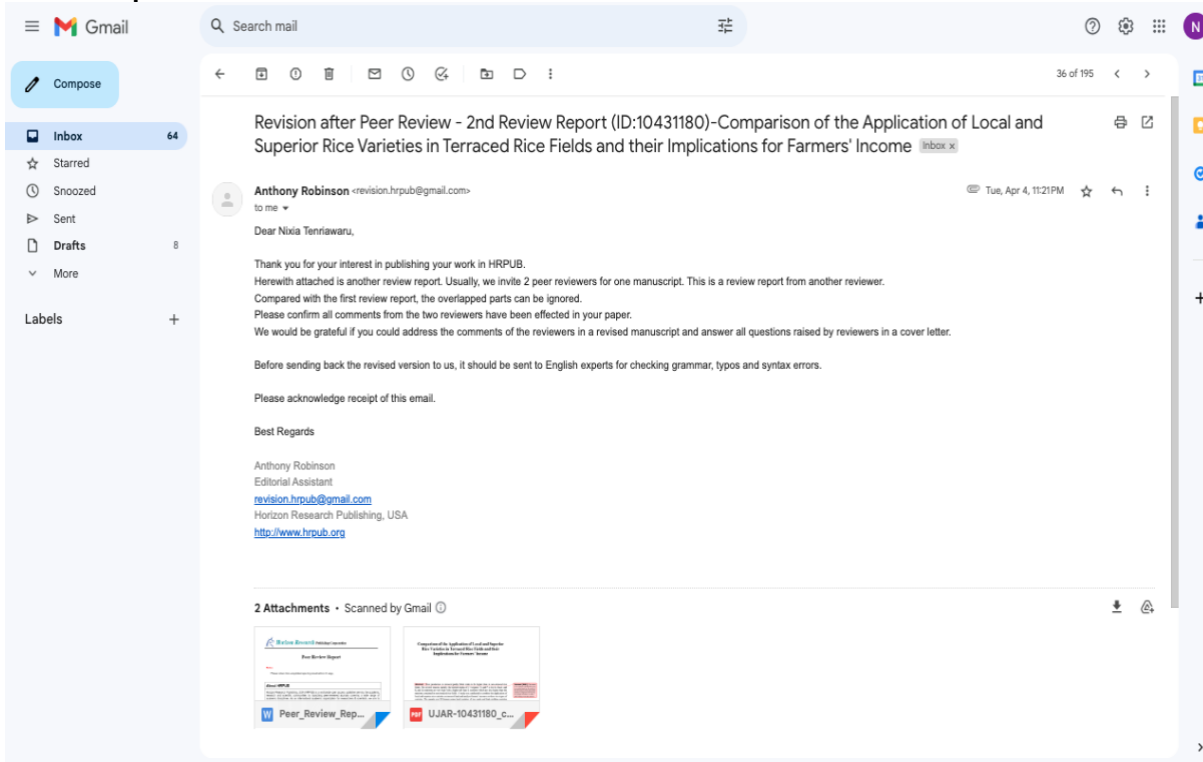

Is Table 2 about data from North Toraja or Tana Toraja regency? Please make sure.	Table 2 showed data from North Toraja Regency	Page 5
In the Method, this study was done in 2022. If these data from a research project in 2020, please mention the source of data.	The year 2020 has a typing error that should be 2022. And we have revised it to 2022 (Title of Table 2)	Page 5
This is not clear on what the authors are trying to say: the number of local rice producers was 30% of what?	30% refers to the percentage of respondents' assessment, which means that 30% of respondents prefer local rice over superior rice, which is only 3.33% of the overall respondents' assessment. And for clarity, we have revised this section.	4 - 4
For a scientific paper, the conclusion of a study reported in the paper must be with a very high confidence interval, i.e. normally 95% confidence. Therefore, comparison MUST be done using a statistical method, for example using t-test, with an error level of 5%, whether under one-tail or two-tail t-test, depending on the hypothesis formulation. Therefore, this type of income analysis MUST be done in each sample farmer of the 60 farmers sampled during the survey.	We have revised the analysis used to compare the income of local and improved rice farmers using independent t-test analysis. See Table 4	Page 6 and 7
Please make sure, was this study done in North Toraja or Tana Toraja	This study was done in North Toraja	7 - 4
This calculation must be done for each sampe farmer; so where these calculation results were from?	This calculation is derived from the sample average for local rice farmers and superior rice farmers.	8 - 2
This also a wrong reference because ref [34] is about cultivation of ginger. How come.	There was an error inputting the reference, but we have revised it with the correct one. See reference [46]	10 - 3
References
Please revise this reference list by exactly following the correct style used in this journal. Please also add the list to include the references that have not been listed here. The refs with red background are incorrectly written, so please fix them.	We have revised all reference numbering and citation errors.	Page 11
